

Teachers—

Curious about what’s new in the education research journals and magazines but don’t feel like you have time to read through them?

Best Practices Weekly is a free service that summarizes one article about instruction per week in written, video and audio formats (currently focusing primarily on elementary grades). It is bite-sized professional development for teachers, by teachers – and you can consume it in just 10 minutes per week, even over lunch or on your prep period.

To sign up, simply go to www.bestpracticesweekly.com
and enter your email address.

Don’t forget to “like” Best Practices Weekly on Facebook and follow on Twitter (@bpweekly), too!